“ If my memory serves me. It was in 1966. David and I attended our first live music concert together in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. We saw Tommy James and the Shondells. Their hot new song was "My Baby does the Hanky Panky". We went to another concert together and saw the Grassroots perform. Two boys, two cousins, growing up together and enjoying new adventures. David was who I wanted to be. He could knock the hell out of a baseball, and I couldn't. What a man!

“ When we were kids growing up. Fishing in Silver Creek was our passion. My dad, Herman Aunt Eula's brother, would say, y'all ready to go fishing at Mt. Hermon. That was a silly question. Y'all gotta help find bait. We'd hunt puppy dogs, dig earth worms, dig hog worms, and if we run short. Dad would have us run down a chicken and he'd get the guts. David and Joey and sometimes Steve and Perry were always waiting. We would definitely catch fish. Channel cat, blue cat, ells, goggleeye, perch, you name it. We'd fish all day and ran the lines at night. Back then nobody knew what an icechest was. We put our catch in Aunt Eula's bathtub. Noone got a bath. Used a dishpan and a washrag. That was living it up. All us cousin's played and loved each other. Never fussed or fight. We love you David. We'll miss you. When we meet again. I'll bring the bait.

“ Sometimes around 1965, David and I were both 15. Typical 15 year old boys. We both loved girls, motorcycles, and music. David had gotten himself a guitar and had been practicing. He was so excited to play for me. I was really surprised when he played, "The House of The Rising Sun" by the Animals to me. He had it down, he played it well. Years and a lifetime has passed, BUT, everytime I hear that song. I think of David and how excited he was to "show me" what he had done. That's a memory I'll take to my grave. I love you David.
