

Floyd Delano Pitzer

August 9, 1945 - May 27, 2026

Floyd Delano Pitzer, age 80, was a resident of Franklinton and a renowned horseman, affectionately known as “The Man.” He was a devoted husband, father, grandfather, and friend who crossed the “finish line with a win” on Wednesday, May 27th, at his home, moving toward an imperishable, eternal crown.

“I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith.” (2 Timothy 4:7)

Floyd was born on August 9, 1945, to Lynn August and Alice Opal Stebbins Pitzer in Ladoga, Indiana. As the youngest of six siblings, he grew up in rural Georgia, surrounded by the bounty of peaches and pecans. He graduated from Perry High School in 1963. The Pitzer family operated a dairy, farmed a thousand acres, and enjoyed raising and racing quarter horses. Floyd learned the value of hard work and traditional values through the work ethic of a country boy. The heritage of true cowboys, ranching, and racing quarter and thoroughbred horses became his ideal lifestyle, cultivated from a young age and lasted throughout his life.

Floyd was recognized as a Master Farrier, was a Union Blacksmith in Florida for many years. He began his shoeing career with farm, ranch, and working horses. In his early years he was known for winning the QH Congress with the horse, Gotta Hurry Hill. He shod quarter horse racehorses, mounted horses for the US Government, transitioned to Standardbred Harness Horses, and later moved to Thoroughbred Tracks in Florida, where “Racehorses Became His Life.” Floyd spent many years shoeing for notable stables at Hialeah, Calder, and the Florida racing circuits, while also operating a racing stable of his own.

In the 1970s, Floyd relocated to Louisiana and, for over 56 years, held a license from the LSRC as an owner, trainer, and blacksmith, making Louisiana his prominent home. He raced in multiple states including Florida, Kentucky, Georgia, Texas, Ohio, Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia with both quarter horses and thoroughbreds. However, his beloved Fairgrounds Racecourse, Evangeline Downs, Delta Downs, and Louisiana Downs were the places he considered home. He was a member of the LA HBPA and the LTBA, and his respect for peers in the racing industry was evident in the stories he shared. Floyd believed that experience teaches the most valuable lessons, and since success cannot be predicted, it is wise to surround oneself with trustworthy people, let your horse determine its own value, and avoid making enemies. He was known for his quick wit, entertaining stories, and a great sense of humor.

Described as a natural horseman by family and friends, Floyd modestly referred to himself as someone who “shod a few.” He mentored others, helping them improve their skills and knowledge in the equine industry and in people relations. Floyd was a traditional, hands-on trainer who appreciated quality horses and enjoyed working with them daily. He often expressed gratitude for being able to do what he loved every day. Floyd will be dearly missed.

Floyd liked fast horses, pretty women, western movies and classic country music. His strong character, with the ability to laugh at himself, made him a favorite of many. Old friends were dear to him, and he missed the ones that went before him. Family vacations usually involve a horse trailer in tow. He lived his life as though everyone understood him. That was a great way to look at life. Home to him was the best place to be, the Racetrack was the second-best place to be. "Long live horsemen," would be Floyd's mantra.

Floyd's greatest love was his family. Sharing traditions, holiday gatherings, and family time were integral parts of his life. Floyd had six daughters and a son. He would boast that he had the prettiest girls around and of course, Chad was Hercules to him. He was proud of his children and grandchildren, feeling blessed to be part of their lives. Lovingly known as Granddaddy or Granddad to 28 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren, Floyd often said he had a full house, but he always had room for one more. Chuck, Debbie and Lesley. He believed his biggest contributions and greatest assets were his family and that these children would make the world a better place. The highlight of his life was spending time with his grandchildren. They all had Nicknames. In fact, if you were in Floyd's circle, you would have a Nickname. That was his way of loving you.

Floyd was preceded in death by his parents, his siblings, and family members: Richard & Gloria Pitzer, Grubby & Betty Pitzer, James Pitzer; brothers-in-law Willie Tyson, Loree Long, and Blake Short; nephews Steve, Lucky, and Jerry Pitzer; son-in-law Norman Ford; mother-in-law Carolyn Simmons; sister-in-law Donna Berggren; and beloved granddaughter Madison Peco.

“ Uncle Floyd was one of the most loving men that I ever knew. He was 13 years old when I was born and lived on the Pitzer dairy farm near me throughout my childhood. He & Uncle Jim were like big brothers to me. He always greeted me with a big bear hug & kiss on the cheek. I am going to miss those hugs and kisses!

“ Renee and family, it was an honor knowing and being Floyd's friend since 1960, when my family moved to Perry, Ga. Our friendship grew strong at Perry High School(Go Panthers) and when I got home from serving in the Marine Corps, I moved in with Floyd at the dairy farm. The years I lived around the Pitzer family was so enjoyable, going to horse shows and races and just being a part of the beloved family! Their kindness will never be forgotten! My Prayers and thoughts are with all of the family at this difficult time as we go through losing a loved one. I love y'all! RIP my friend...

“ Renee (and family), I remember when you and Floyd came to visit us in Ohio. That was such a special memory for us because we didn't get to see you very often after we all got married and didn't come down to Atmore like we did when we were kids. Our hearts grieve for your loss, but we know that we can't stay here forever, and that God has a tremendous homecoming for us when our time is done here. God bless you and we pray that the peace of His Holy Spirit envelops all of you until you finally meet again in Heaven. You are in our prayers.
