“ T.J. and Mallory, I know how hard this is for you, especially T.J. However, in the days to come, remember the great times that you have shared and the wisdom Mr. Jack imparted to you. My favorite and most precious memory is the day Mallory and I went to the house to pick up some things for Khloe. Mr. Jack was sitting in his chair holding Khloe and talking softly to her. He said, "I promise to take care of you for as long as I can, Little Queen". And he did...He really loved all of you.

T.J.-he loved you the most. I know this because when he was in the hospital, he did not want you to leave his side and you didn't. You were a good son to him.

Mallory-he loved you like a daughter. You took excellent care of him and I know that he was so grateful to you for that. I know this because he always responded to you even on his weakest days. You seemed to know exactly what he wanted and what to do.

Khloe-you were the "light" of his eye. Although he could not see you, he knew that you were beautiful. May you grow up knowing that your great-grandpa loved his Little Queen.

Last, but not least, please know that God is who He says that He is...your rock, your salvation, and your comforter. I love you all,
Honey
